Department of Planning and Permitting (DPP)
Planning Division

10. The ordinance is sent to the Mayor for approval. If the Mayor vetoes the ordinance, it goes back to the Council which can override the veto if six of the nine Council members vote to approve the ordinance.

Total Time Period: 365 days

* Processing of this application by the DPP and preparation of the Director's Report and Recommendation is only the first step in review and decision making on a Development Plan (DP) amendment. After the Director's Report and Recommendation is transmitted to the Planning Commission and City Council, the proposed amendment must first be considered by the Planning Commission and then approved as an ordinance by the City Council.

 There is no specific time frame for the DPP to complete the processing of an amendment to the DP because the amount of time required to insure a thorough analysis and community discussion of a proposed amendment will vary depending on the nature and complexity of the proposed change.
