I would like to suggest an alternative to any form of centralized wind or solar energy collection. I think we should utilize locally sourced wind and solar collecting, including over existing structures such as parking lots and garages, city roofs etc. I believe it is unwise to locate oahu's source of energy on a different island, thus opening it to disruption as well as irrevocably changing an island that is not the end user. Any centralized source for any island should at the very least be on that island. It is only fair.
